Chapters

1. A Tapestry of Quaint Villages

Bourton-on-the-Water

Known as the "Venice of the Cotswolds," Bourton-on-the-Water is a picturesque village with charming bridges crossing the River Windrush. Take a stroll along the riverbank, visit the Old Mill Museum, or hire a punt for a gentle ride.

Stow-on-the-Wold

Perched high on a hilltop, Stow-on-the-Wold is a bustling market town with a rich history. Explore its narrow streets lined with independent shops and galleries, or visit the medieval St Edward's Church. On Tuesdays, the town hosts a vibrant farmers' market.

Broadway

Nestled in the heart of the Cotswolds, Broadway is an elegant village known for its wide main street lined with honey-colored houses and boutique shops. Visit Broadway Tower for panoramic views of the surrounding countryside, or take a walk through the nearby Broadway Tower Country Park.

Cirencester

Cirencester is the largest town in the Cotswolds and a great base for exploring the region. Its Roman heritage is evident in the Corinium Museum, while the impressive Cirencester Park offers beautiful gardens and a grand mansion to explore.

Bibury

Bibury is one of the most photographed villages in England, thanks to its idyllic Arlington Row, a row of honey-colored cottages with a clear stream running in front. Take a walk along the River Coln, visit the Bibury Trout Farm, or explore the village's charming tea rooms.
