

Inside The Reno Air Races

The Reno Air Races are the world's fastest motorsport event, and they are also one of the most dangerous. Every September, pilots from around the world gather at the Reno-Stead Airport in Nevada to compete in a series of high-speed races. The planes reach speeds of up to 500 miles per hour, and the races are often won by mere seconds.

Inside The Reno Air Races is a gripping account of this thrilling and dangerous event. Author Peter Garrison takes readers behind the scenes of the races, introducing them to the pilots, teams, and organizers who make this event possible. Garrison also provides a detailed history of the Reno Air Races, from its humble beginnings in the 1960s to its current status as one of the world's most popular motorsports events.
