The Heartbreaking Backstory

Ramona Isbell's life took an unimaginable turn on April 4, 1968, when her older brother, Martin Luther King Jr., was assassinated. As the nation grappled with shock and grief, Ramona, just a mere 14 years old, found herself thrust into the national spotlight. The eyes of the world watched as she delivered an emotionally charged eulogy at her brother's funeral.

In the tumultuous days that followed, Ramona struggled to come to terms with her loss. Overwhelmed by grief, anger, and confusion, she retreated into herself, seeking solace in the written word. It was during this time that she penned the now-famous Ramona Isbell Letter.
